

_____ to _____ you person you're giving advice to

1. Well, _____, I'll tell you:
person you're giving advice to

2. Life for me _____.
"has or hasn't been" something else. Use your metaphor.

3. It's had _____,
Extend your metaphor. Keep comparing life to your metaphor.

4. and _____,
Add another attribute of your object/metaphor.

5. and _____,
Add another attribute of your object/metaphor.

6. and _____ -
Add another attribute of your object/metaphor.

7. _____.
one word that life and your object have in common .

8. But (or) And all the time

9. I've been _____,
Describe how you've been living life using what it has in common with your object.

10. and _____,
Keep describing how you've been living life using what it has in common with your object.

11. and _____,
Keep describing how you've been living life using what it has in common with your object.

12. and _____
Keep describing how you've been living life using what it has in common with your object.

13. where _____.
Keep describing how you've been living life using what it has in common with your object.

14. So, _____, don't _____.
person you're giving advice to advice you're giving about life

15. Don't _____ more advice you're giving about life

16. because _____.

advice you're giving about life

17. Don't _____ - -

advice you're giving about life

18. For I'm still _____.

Describe how you're still living life using what it has in common with your object.

19. I'm still _____.

Describe how you're still living life using what it has in common with your object.

20. And life for me _____.

Repeat what life "has or hasn't been" for you. Use your metaphor in line 2.

FINAL COPY – Write your final draft NEATLY below.